CONCERNING FREEDOM

-by -

Swami Vivekananda *

And what does it (Karma Yoga) say? "Work thou incessantly, but give up all attachment to work." Do not identify yourself with any - thing. Hold your mind free. All this that you see, the pains and the miseries, are but conditions of this world; poverty and wealth and happiness are but momentary; they do not belong to our nature at all. Our nature is far beyond misery, or happiness, beyond everything of the senses, beyond the imagination; and yet we must go on working all the time. "Misery comesthrough attachment, not through work. As soon as we identify ourselves with the work we feel miserable, but if we do not identify ourselves with it we do not feel that misery. If a beautiful picture belonging to another is burned, a man does not become miserable, nut when his own picture is burned how miserable he feels! Why? Both were beautiful pictures, perhaps copies of the same original, but in one case misery is felt and not in the other. It is because in one case he identifies himself with the picture. This "I and mine" causes the whole misery. Every act of selfishness makes us attached to something behind, and immediately we are made slaves. The more we say,"I and mine" the more misery increases. Karma Yoga tells us to enjoy all the pictures in the world but not to identify ourselves with them. Never say "Mine." Whenever we say a thing is ours, misery will immediately come. Do not even say "My child" in your mind. If you do, then will come the misery. Do not say "My house " do not say "My body." The body is neither yours nor mine nor anybody's. These bodies are coming and going by a law of nature, but we are free, standing as witness. . . .

So the Karma Yoga says, first destroy the tendency to project this tentacle of selfishness. Then go out into the world and work as much as you can and you will never be touched. You will be like the lotus leaf which the water cannot wet. This non-attachment is the basis of all the Yogas. But it does not mean what we do in our external body, but it is in the mind. A man may be on a throne and perfectly non-attached; another may be in rags and still very much attached. But giving up attachment is very hard. Those who do not believe in God must work only with the power of their own minds. For those who believe,it is less difficult because they can give up the fruits of their work to the Lord. (As to the idea of Duty), the only duty we have is to be unattached. We serve our time here, well or ill, who knows? We do not get a reward nor do we get a punishment. Be at rest, be free, and work. But when an attachment has been establised we call it duty and sacred texts are said over it and trumpets are sounded. Give to the world what you have to give, but not as a duty. Be not compelled. Compulsion is attachment. And the only way to get out of misery is to give up the idea of happiness, because the two are linked together . . .

THE EHRENHAFT EXPERIMENT

Comment by John A. Hilliard, BSRA.

(BSR booklet called VITIC contains - page 7 - a paragraph supplied by Assoc. E.C. Krieger, but not definitely vouched for by him, to the following effect: "A refugee, Felix Ehrenhaft, has purportedly demonstrated the actuality of what has ever been merely a mathematical tool - the magnetic current as the partner of the electric current. He used a permanent magnet, made it work by simply putting the poles through a U-tube with sulphuric acid and water. Naturally, H is evolved, but more O appears in one leg than is due to chemical action, and O was found mixed with H in the other leg. And the strength of the magnet was found to have decreased - something thought impossible..."

(The concepts involved are obviously of much importance, especially in connection with some of the experimental work being carried on by BSR Associates, RR offers excerpts from a letter by Assoc. J.A.H. dealwith this subject matter):

... "Now, about Ehrenhaft's experiment. I read the article quite some time ago in one of the popular science magazines - not "Popular Science" necessarily. Anyway, the final comment was that "probably Dr. Ehrenhaft just 'thought' his magnet had lost strength". If it had they couldn't see why. The separation of the sulphuric acid and water into H and O is a normal chemical reaction and the ions will go to their proper magnetic pole - it was the loss of magnetic strength that proved to Dr. E. the existance of the magnetic current and gave the Wiseacres something to not understand and so to be impossible - if you know what I mean.

"Having studied the subject a little, I'm inclined to believe that the magnetic field of a steel or Alnico magnet and that of the human or animal body are two different things. Animal magnetism, so called, is first, not a tractive force; second, not a static field or 'space warp' so to speak. It flows, that is, it is fluid and it is radiant. Clairvoyants see the radiant action as the "etheric aura". Hence, the mistake that it is a field, a static field like that of a magnet.

"You see, when the electrons in the atoms of paramagnetic matter become polarized in their orbits the tension they create by their motion lies all in one direction and is felt beyond the confines of the form of the material.

"In this we have a clue to the nature of space. On the other hand OD or Vitic is an etheric substance, diamagnetic in nature, and I've come to believe it is related to the flow of protons in the body substance rather than to electrons. I haven't been able to find out if a current of protons would create a magnetic field or not. But we do know a magnetic field will affect their motion, in the opposite direction to its effect on an electron in motion.

"A protonic current along the nerves may generate a species of space warp, or magnetic field which would in turn drive the vital atoms into radiant action.

"Any tensor field will constitute a tractive force reactive on specific substances, all depending on the shape of the field. These, I think, are some of the properties of space. What I mean is, that the space within the atomic structure of any given substance, or combination of elements, differs from any other such. Thus when conditions in a substance are such as to cause it to generate a polarized tensor field in space, it then has a tractive force with respect to other definite substances - this is the basis, or could be, of chemical valence, and answers the puzzle of the action of catalysts used in chemical reactions.

"I belive that as far as the flow of the life elements in the living organism are concerned carbon is a catalyst whose tensor field makes possible the combination of etheric and chemical substance in the body. The field of a ferrous magnet is a tensor field of opposite direction and apparently tends to have the opposite effect, i.e., the separation of the vital elements and the chemical elements of the body.

"The conclusion is that so called animal magnetism is not the same as ferrous magnetism. Yet one may act on the other to produce observed effects - the ferrous magnetic field driving inward, the carbon rod providing easy egress for the vital energies, or elements if you please.

"Now to go back to Ehrenhaft's idea. It is true that a magnetic current can be illustrated mathematically. As far as ferrous magnetism, and electro-magnetism is concerned, we haven't yet figured out how to generate one current without the other. Even in Dr. E.'s experiment the magnetic fields of his magnets are the result of polarized electronic movement.

"We can propose that the magnetic field of a ferrous, or Alnico magnet is actually the etheric part of the atomic substance of the magnet which gets itself extended by the electrons getting all their little orbits lying in parallel planes. However, the extension by actual measurement is indefinite; hence, it seems more rational to conclude that such a field is a space warp, or tensor field rather than a substance. On the other hand, there is no rule that says such a field must be static. That the tensors could move or flow through the body of space (Koilon?) like ripples on a snail's belly is altogether within reason. The effect such a flow would have on matter might answer some of the mysteries of the physical plane. If so, we have there a basis for a good theory of magnetic currents."

CONTENTS OF THE YADA*

... "There is no such thing as a contagious disease. We walk into a 'field' of fear - fears of our own or of others. Feel, rather, that you walk always into a field of light - and only that which is yours can come to you

"Every disease is first a psychic thing. It is first in your mind. Your body is primarily a recording machine, for stimuli received from 'outside'. As you permit stimuli to affect you, the body feels the result and responds in every cell. How sensible it would be, to guard against what you receive from 'outside'! I do not necessarily mean something which excites you strongly. Your world is groping in fears from almost every source. How can you expect not to be ill of body! Yet in your world there is an abundance of everything you need.

"You can do as much for yourself as any priest or doctor can do.

"You are as free as I am - if you only knew it. You can prove it to yourself by working toward that goal.

"The fear of death is capable of creating a psychological block, and this may cause you to remain in a sleep or coma, perhaps for a long time (after death). This in itself is not so bad, but you will need the attention of a watcher or helper, or you may not be able to understand that you have died and no one will be able to convince you of that fact. Yet peace, freedom, and relief await you. Death is a beautiful and wonderful experience.

"It is supposed by some that there is some kind of material attraction... between water underground and the instruments (of the dowser). Everything has a radiation of its own - not only from the form, but of another ray also (as we may call it) due to the motion that exists in that form. Some persons of a sensitive nature and with attuned nervous systems need but the instrument as a point for the mind-stuff or psyche to attach itself to; some need no instrument, but only to extend the hand. But the hands are an instrument also, and the psyche does a great deal of work through these. They are extensions of the psyche. And the hands have a radiation of their own. And the body contains blood, which has its magnetic field. This transfers feelings in suggestive form to the brain, where the psyche can get into contact.

"The mind knows where all things are, and in extending sensitivity through the nervous system to the rod, it will react to the radiations of what you are looking for. A dowser can find anything he is looking for.

Note:* Yada di Shi'ite ('Chief of the Shi'ite clan') is well-known to most of our readers as one of the principal Controls heard through the deep-trance mediumship of Mark Probert. Our five years of frequent contact with these Controls lead us to hold them in the highest regard.

ML

"This sensitivity can be acquired. It is latent in everyone - that is, latent in the psyche.

"In the so-called transfer of power or Mana (ability to locate water, fire immunity and so on) there is no real transference of anything, as of substance or energy, but a latent power responds and awakens.

(Question: concerning the tendency of a dowsing instrument to describe a figure 8 when held underneath certain objects).

"The figure 8 represents a binding action of the creative forces - the creation of material bodies out of the original vortex.

"In the forming of things we may have a vortex set up that may not create three dimensions in matter of your plane, but may be matter of another plane, or planes.

"There is no actual division between etheric and astral planes.

"There is no density at all in mental vibrations. The density you can feel on your plane is of necessity a material vibration, but the actual mental vibration has no width or depth. When you think, you create a mould into which material substance rushes.

"There are two forms of motion. One we will call inertia; the other - well, perhaps kinetic will do. In working with the quantum theory you are going to have a flash, then nothingness, then flash again -- or, a point-and-no-point series. The no-point we can call the mould - the mind action in which there is no-point... How many years I have spent, in my material experiences, in meditating on what I am, and here I am going on and on with the same problems! *

"The color for (of) potassium chloride, KCL, is green. Green has the number 2. White light (containing the colors) has the number 1. **

"Did you know that we on our side are often haunted by you? By the never-sleeping psyche of you on your own plane. Many reoccurring dreams are caused by living persons haunting our plane. . .

(Question: concerning assertions that few dreams last more than three seconds).

" "Well, just what are three seconds, by itself? And how long are three seconds on my plane? Time is a mental concept and cannot be measured by a clock. . .

Feb.25,1952; at S.D.

Remark by Professor Luntz (Control). You cannot filter a virus any more than you can filter a psychological block. The 'cold germ' cannot be filtered. . . Many actions cause temperature changes in the body; some of these destroy good bacteria and leave the others, and some destroy the bad and leave the beneficial. . . Different parts of the body have different temperatures; these can be disturbed by the mind and the results are not good for the parts involved ... and we never know just how we will respond to a given stimulus.

NOTES: * Quantum theory: The apparent continuity of existence of any material object is comparable only to the apparent continuity of a cinema picture, which consists of a succession of stills. If we designate time-points (say, seconds) by a-b-c-d-e-f, etc. we perceive an object at a, c, e, but at b-d-f it is out of existence on our plane. Where is it and what is it, at those time points - if the question makes sense?

If we lived in Flatland, on a plane like a sheet of paper, two dimensions only, and a pyramid was thrust up through that plane, we would see it as a point, or as a square or a triangle, but never guess that it was a pyramid. So, maybe this RR you are reading is a tin whistle, at b-d-f instants when it isn't here. So, appearances are indeed deceitful - the veil of Maya is upon everything. .. I say 'everything' and add 'everywhere', because the existence of the tin whistle would also be a matter of quanta; it would flick out at its h-j-l time points, the way this booklet does at b-d-f. And for human thinking at any rate, there's no end to this regress; planes within planes and time-points between time points - and no continuity anywhere - and what does identity mean - and the most magnificent achievement of the human mind (meaning the quantum concept) has been to underscore the devastating infinitude of our ignorance - and so a bas and Ah Bah with all Absolutes - and vive Samuel Butler, who said that there is no source of error like the pursuit of absolute truth . . .!

Note  Potassium cloride - green - number 2: An Associate learned in such matters told us - put a gram of KCL in a liter of distilled water, and put a coil of wire into the solution, and attach the other end of the wire to a screen - say, an ordinary door or window screen. Then, said he, 'the screen will give off a ray, which feels cool, and which seems to relieve fatigue and nervousness -- I've used it for years, sez he. So your Director (willing to try anything once) set up the set-up, and asked the Controls about it - and one of them replied in effect -

> 'Certainly, the screen gives off what you might call a ray, and it's very good for some people and not so good for others, and with some others has no effect at all - but if you have the right psycho-physical senstivity for it, the 'ray' will seek you out as you come near it - you don't have to stand in front of the screen . ..

On the general principle of radi-emanation from everything, the hypothesis is highly plausible. And if so simple a contrivance will produce physiological and therapeutic effects, the number of ways of treating and mistreating the human body can be multiplied by a million or so. What we need, of course (to say it once again) is some objective and instrumental means of registering the actual existence of such emanations.

The same observation applies to VITIC - but here the effects of magnetic fields on organic cells can be regarded as proven; it is the role of the carbon which needs to be verified. The emanations from cones, helixes and solenoids (non-activated) and a multitude of other things, while shown strongly by the Cameron aurameter still need to be demonstrated by other and more 'orthodox' means. The possibilities for useful amateur investigation are unlimited.

Yada di Shi'ite, con. (2-11-52)

"Your 'missing links', anthropoids, ape-like men or manlike apes are mutants of an original and much superior stock - and the mutation was largely due to the release of atomic energy - the same thing you are now playing with.

The human race now on this planet is not 'ascending'; it is on the path of long decline and fall. No new race can emerge from this present human stock which will turn the course of this decline. A new race will indeed arise, but it will not be of this origin.

Various causes will combine to make an end of humanity (not soon, of course, but in the processes of time). Then (as I believe) your planet will remain devoid of human life, perhaps for millions of years. When the new race appears it will not consist of reincarnated souls from present or past earth races. All such racial inheritance must be overpassed and ended, if there is to be hope for the newcomers. Once again, as in ages past, your planet will be colonized by races from other planes of existence.

The original colonizing race (of your present humanity) were a black race yet not 'negros' as you now use the term. The present-day negro is a degenerate remnant of this original people. After the ice-belt caved in there came a lighter colored people. They were 'white' with blond hair and blue eyes. These were the first 'Aryans'. They were 9 to 12 ft. in height.

But the original race of which I spoke were 50 to 60 ft. in height.

After the tall people came the pigmies, the 'Little People' - and thruout the world they built great empires. They were at first a well-formed people, not like the present pigmies. Then the larger peoples appeared again, and they overcame the pigmies and destroyed them. The little people who were left were destroyed through mating with the conquerors; they became very ugly and degenerate.

For three and a half billion years your earth has been wracked by tempest and earthquake - violence beyond your conception. Only the recent great quakes in Tibet and India are in any way comparable.

Mighty was the civilization of YU, and by the violence of Nature it was overthrown; the survivors fled into China and into India. From these remote origins your own race stems also.

Always the dawn-people, the civilized, cultured people of the dawn, were vegetarians. Only in the last few thousand years has man become a meat-eater. Cancers and all tumorous growths were then unknown. Cancer is a mutation - a body trying to produce something new.

Medical science is as far from a knowledge and cure of cancer as it ever was. No progress has been made. Cancer is due to wrong thinking, then to wrong eating, then to chemical changes in the body. Cancer corresponds to parasitic growths on trees and plants.

Speaking broadly, it is useless to try to convince minds of the old order - 'orthodox' science, popular beliefs, prejudice, ignorance. Medical men take an effect for a cause (re cancer) and a cause for an effect.

'Heart trouble' arises out of mental confusion - which leads into wrong action - thence the blood stream loses its rhythmic flow - then minute clots form, and finally these unite and become larger. More work is thrown upon the arteries of the heart.

Your present civilization is committing suicide in every sense of the word, on all levels of action and thought. It is an insane hodgepodge-like the cells of a cancer. The peoples starve in both minds and bodies.

I speak only of what I have seen through many generations. Do you want to escape this madness? Seek then within yourself. Seek DETACHMENT. All this vast spectacle of which I speak is a dream. It is a nightmare. Do not be caught up in this nightmare.

If you wish to help men, however, you cannot isolate yourself. You must go where they are, for they will not come to you. You must live among them in body, and you must have the means of doing this. It is right to accept financial help for such purposes. No teacher should offer himself as a sacrifice to the rabble. Those whom you would teach will destroy you if you permit it. You live in a world of woes and if you fall by the wayside, these woes will pounce upon you and destroy you."

Associate H.M.W. (DeFuniak Springs, Fla.) has long been recording messages received in his own group, through a medium in whom he has confidence. RR has printed several of these communications, and I now extract a paragraph from a recent letter - HMW to RR Editor.

> "Our communicators regard this year as troublesome, starting almost at once. We were told on Saturday that the striking event foretold for last week took place as scheduled in Ino-China. That it is being played down and kept from the news as far as possible, but will have far-reaching results. Also hinted that it may be necessary for the Seventh Fleet to withdraw from Formosa; that the submarines in Caribbean were Chinese and not Russian, on reconnaisance of approaches to the Canal, which in certain eventualities will be attacked - "and these will occur". Suez canal will soon be a "dirty ditch".....

(We print this for your information and without comment, except to say that we have confidence in the experience and good judgment of Assoc. HMW in the field of psychic studies).

MISCELLANEOUS HEADLINES - and - The San Diego Fireball

"Cows began jumping up and down".A CAA Inspector says it was a "silver cigar-shaped object travelling at an ungodly speed". Air authorities say it was NOT a guided missile (2/18/52).

San Diego Fireball. Location: about 10 miles south of San Diego, on an asphalted roadway. Time, about 4:30 pm. Sky, cloudy-bright. Observer, Mr. Elmer Kieport, driver of a bakery truck. Date, Feb.23,1952. Time of observation, nearly one minute by observer's estimate.

This object appeared as a globe some two feet in diameter, of intense brilliancy "like a welder's arc"; it was impossible to gaze at it steadily. "I looked at it several times, turning my head away to keep from hurting my eyes; when I looked back the last time it was gone".

The globe was only 2-3 ft. above the roadbed, moved ahead very slowly, and was rotating on its own axis. The observer was within 50-60 ft. of it, and it did not move more than about 60 ft. during the time it was under observation. The last four ft. of its path showed as a blackened streak on the road surface, and this ended in a charred spot some 4-5" square. It disappeared silently, no explosion.

In spite of this last fact, there was a scattering of tiny metallic bits over a radius of perhaps 6 ft. There was also a good deal of fine blue-green matter resembling copper sulphate. Four or 5 pieces of very thin metal, each about a cm in area, wer recovered. Your Director succeeded in obtaining two of these.

A geiger counter taken to the spot some four days later showed no activity. Chemical analysis of the metal showed almost pure aluminum with a trace of magnesium. The chemist suggested a magnesium flare from a plane, but inquiry of the ranking officer at Reams Airfield nearby disclosed that no planes carrying such flares were aloft on that day, and that flares carried are by order only. -- There was no trace of green in the fireball, according to the observer, but only an intense white brilliance, as stated above. Two pieces of the metal have been sent to the meteoritic Institute at the University of New Mexico, where Dr. LaPaz has been investigating similar occurrences.

This incident, though interesting to the investigator, is only one out of many and cannot be called spectacular. Your Director has given it in rather full detail, partly because it supplied the text for comments by the trance Control Yada di Shi'ite. Most of our Associates are familiar with the fact, that since the year 1946 we have carried on a long series of sittings with a non-professional deep trance medium, Mark Probert of San Diego. This long-continued experience with these communicators has given us a high degree of confidence in them and entitles them to a most respectful hearing.

These Controls have often discussed, during the past five years, the problem of the flying discs, fireballs, and many related phenomena, and tho' such information is hardly acceptable in the world of science (or shall we say, of scientism), the BSR Director and many Associates have come to esteem it very highly. Now it happens that the problem of the flying Discs (et al.) and that of the fireballs are closely related - as indeed many people have come to believe.

I must now explain briefly how the Yada di Shi'ite happend to take up the incident described above, of the San Diego fireball. Our Regional Director, Assoc. E.S.S. of Buffalo (N.Y.) recently delivered a lecture in the course of which he displayed reproductions in color of portraits of the Mark Probert Controls, as painted by the medium, Mark P. At the close of the lecture one of his hearers, an expert photographer, tried to photograph the five reproductions mentioned, and obtained results in all cases except with the portrait of the Yada - which showed no sign of the portrait, its frame, the table or any other object in the room. Instead it displayed remarkable formations of white discs and egg-shaped objects, apparently issuing from faintly outlined vortexes, some with "stems" and some apparently spinning on their axes. (We hope to reproduce this in RR). On March 7 a small meeting was held in San Diego, at the home of the Director, and the photograph was discussed prior to the seance proper. The Yada then took control of the medium and began speaking on the same subject. His comments were not lengthy but of so remarkable a nature that I think they should be made available to our readers. (I omit questions by sitters where their content is obvious):

YADA DI) 'What you have on this print is a representation of 3rd SHI'ITE) grade etheric material. This is the same kind of stuff that the fireballs are made of, but to explain the mechanics of the matter is very difficult. As to the elimination of the portrait - the picture you tried to photograph, I accomplished that by refracting the light waves. -- Yes, we can do this for any object on your plane; we can make it invisible to you and impossible to photograph. The egg-shaped objects are energy nodes, a primitive energy form. These egg shapes become globes. They are what you might call congealed light. That is, energy radiations from everywhere else are blocked off. At a certain degree of solidity they become heat - a heat which may or may not create a burn. They are high pure kinetic energy. They create an etheric aluminum, and also a copper element which makes the globes more durable.

These globes are in effect sensitive plates and they are able to photograph both the inside and the outside of objects of your plane.

The green color, when it occurs, is due to the presence of gaseous copper.

An enlarged picture is cast onto the ether. There is a kind of teleportation of a picture and it can be be held for a time. However, this picture will change in exact correspondence with the object it represents. -- Yes, the incessant molecular and atomic changes going on in the object will cause the picture on the ether to become distorted.

The original substance or matter of space was pure heat - which equates with etheric light. All forms of being made in space originate from pure heat. The heat originates in the Cosmic Mind. How did this take place. I shall say only, that time and consciousness are the same thing. It originated because of Time.

There are atoms that are aware of themselves, and others which are not aware. Compare consciousness in the insect world, where some insects are aware of acting but not of themselves as acting.

There are persons in the Etheric world who spend much time and study on scientific work, just as on your plane. Consider the years of work that went into the atomic bomb and the Palomar telescope. . .

(end of comment by the Yada).

NOTES: There are, of course, numerous instances in occult literature of objects which could not be photographed, and the ability to produce the phenomenon has been credited to various here-living Oriental Adepti.

If most of the fireballs be regarded as photographic observational devices, capable of photographing the interior of objects, buildings, and of the earth itself, some of their erratic performances may appear in a more rational light.

It has also been asserted, however (by the Controls) that some of the fireballs are "wipers", designed to prevent or destroy the harmful effects of atomic fission products (from atobomb tests).

Let us get it firmly into our minds, if possible, that we shall never understand the multiform aerial phenomena now swarming about us, until we study them as products of human-like intelligence, rational, and purposive - and also as designed for human welfare, if we will but so accept them and learn from them. Until we realize that planetary isolation is a myth and a delusion, and has always been so.

It may also behoove us to keep in mind, that the friendly people of the Discs (mostly Venusians - etheric Venus) are not the only inhabitants of the solar system and of the universe. We are told that there are 64 bodies in the solar system capable sustaining life forms similar to our own. And that we have visitors also "from beyond the galaxies". Not all of these may be as friendly and charitable. And that the true "Armageddon" will be a space war.-- It is well to learn of these things, but they must be received with quietude, courage, and understanding. (ML)

DON GREEN'S LANTERN (3)

MYSTERIES: Does it make them any the less, to correlate them with similars? If you live by established custom, refuse to accept anything other than fixed design or tradition, the following will not hold your interest.

To merely say that this material is unconventional, is to do it a great injustice. One of the purposes of our Association is to search beyond the norms of conformity; to learn, to advance, to improve. All progress challenges conventionality. Yet we cannot but recall the poets:

Life is a tale Told by a madman, full of sound and fury, Signifying nothing....
Life is such stuff As dreams are made on —
All that we see or seem Is but a dream within a dream....

Well, we regret chopping up a good news story, but space prohibits the full text of this one. With apologies to Booten Herndon, we summarize.....

"MUNICH, Germany...The wisp of battlefront jetsam who is perhaps the most mysterious woman in the world today arrived during the closing days of the war, in the town of Hof. UNRRA officials found her dazed and speechless and apparently starving, and took her to a hospital.

"German identity card in her handbag gave her name as Henrietta de Boyse...said she was citizen of Chile, born Jan. 21, 1921 in San Juan on Chilean-Brazilian border...(error..Chile and Brazil do not touch) Suspecting a spy-Army psychologists took over...Under influence of .. so called 'truth serum' (she) began to talk, in birdlike language that no one could understand, then in snatches of English, German, French...Spoke of father...diplomat...lived in Chile, Brazil, Canada, parts of Europe and Asia.

"Memory of mother...Indonesian temple dancer. (dope wore off, and so did her memory) 'but she could talk...French and German well but not like native...English had odd accent.

"Her native tongue seemed to be the melodious warbeling which had come first from her subconscious. (one) phrase sounded like 'stresdan duwja'...she said it meant 'the world is beautiful'...'san daza bre': 'I want to find my father'.

"professor...University, Munich...working knowledge of 85 languages and dialects, said 'sounds a little like Sanskrit might have been spoken, but that sacred language of the Hindus has been extinct for hundreds, thousands of years.'

"She tried to take her own life...She used no weapon...no drug, yet she was found in a deep coma that would have ended in death if restoratives hadn't been applied at once." THE AMERICAN WEEKLY....June 29, 1947

It is with some uncertainty that I cite fiction in an otherwise scientific review of events; then again we hesitate to draw a sharp line between the real and the unreal. And there lingers an urge that can't be shaken, to line up a comparison between Henrietta de Bouyse and 'Riolama' of W. H. Hudson's 'Green Mansions'.

Here is a little more of Herndon's article that we skipped for economy: "Henrietta's dark, indefinable beauty, her lithe grace and vivacity, the depths of her large somnolent eyes made her popular despite occasional spells of melancholy.

"She knew music classic and modern, Brahms and Gershwin...She rode well. Her bridge game was good and she even knew poker. She could discuss science, art and literature, and she had a knowledge of astronomy that made areial navigation officers gasp....." -a throwback to some uncatalogued civilization of the past (or present) a dainty cosmopolite whose mental processes were weirdly scrambled by the horrors of wartime internment?".....???????

From 'Green Mansions,' A subconscious language: "The warbeling expressions" -so musical and exquisitely modulated...that low warbeling sound or series of sounds.

"When calling to me from a distance she would return to her own mysterious (subconscious) language."....

Birdlike Riolama...the origin of her mother...the grieving of the two women for a homeland that defied description or location....*

Must it necessarily follow that visitants from other dimensions... or planets, if you like...shall always be: three foot bulging-eyed scientists? Is there no beauty where those 'bugs' come from? We'll let that one dangle, because some of the travelers and teleports, certainly come from...They can't all belong here.

Let those who can, believe such things...An exclusionists will find the going distressingly rugged.....

MYSTERY...UNEXPLICABLE...PHYSICS-CONTEM....Now we have got something.

An article in Feb. Westways, by Kirk..sent in by Dana MacGregor... Rocks; huge one; that moved around in the mud of a (now) dry lake; in the Death Valley mountains.

Rocks weighing up to 500 pounds; pushed, pulled or skidded through the mud...leaving zigzag trails, curved trails and looped trails.

One explanation has: "gusty winds", another: "pranksters" (longshoreman enjoying a day off). Explanations seem to have reached a low-low. How silly can they get?

We can offer you the mysterious circles of Mt. Shasta...Rocks in 60 foot circles...not laid by human hands?..."tiny little men in funny hats" This is not meant to be funny. We never deride things not understandable..."600 acres of mounds with..."stones carefully laid" ...around them..."tales of unmortal men descended from the Lost Continent of Atlantis."

"Debunkers have never been able to scoff off...the mysterious Siskiyou Stone Circles."......For more complete details see Chimes magazine, April '51.

HOW FAR CAN WE TRUST...a notable falling together of events, as undesigned concurrence?

One of the largest and busiest airports in the world; with no previous disaster record...now three major wrecks within eight weeks... serious enough to close down a billion dollar enterprise and receive WORLD WIDE publicity. I keep thinking of a couple of lines in an article by M.L. in Vol. 3, RR.

"--which reminds us that the Etheric peoples are said to be considerably annoyed---"

What am I saying!! That line of thought is dynamite!!!.....

SURE WE'LL ACCEPT IT...The harder they are to believe, the better we like 'em.

"An electronic bug chaser".....Picked out of The Denver Post by Eleanor Caswell...A reprint from the Organic Farmer...No need to date it. If there's anything anymore up-to-date: we'll let somebody else take over.

When hard-bitten farmers dig out their check books, they know well enough the gadget works. (The inventor) "Boyce says his...machine can be adjusted to chase any type of insect away from any type of plant or tree."

"--the electronic machine's performance: An aerial photo is taken of the region to be de-bugged. The area to be treated is cut from the photo and inserted in the instrument."

"The machine 'recognizes' the land in the trimmed photo and treatment is confined to this area with almost hair-line precision."

Theory? "--magnetic aura' of plant"...Bugs pick up vibration with their antenna. If the vibration is indicative of lunch, they stay on the beam till they reach the plant and three squares per.

Boyce drops a eucalyptus leaf in the radio...cranks it up and changes the rays of the plant to eucalyptus flavor; which is about as tasty as sheep-dip.....

WATCH ALASKA..."Rev. Bernard R. Hubbard, S.J., famed 'Glacier Priest' of Santa Clara U.; predicted: Alaska will be scene of a major volcanic eruption...this summer...upper part of peninsula...San Jose Mercury ...1/23/52. (no name on this clip. Thanks anyway).....

DENIZENS OF THE DEEP....Long Beach Telegram...2/8/52...(UP) - release...

Shandon, Calif...A 600 foot deep irrigation well recently completed; about 90 miles west of Bakersfield and 50 miles from the ocean in the San Andreas earthquake fault, is pumping fresh water and fish.

These fish are not over three sixteenths of an inch thick; because that's the size of the screening slots in the casing at the bottom of the well. There could be larger fish down there.

Believe this or not, as you wish, but, "--geologists insists that from all indications it is 'the real thing.'"

We may assume I suppose that the geologists saw the fish, felt them, smelled them, maybe tasted them before they decided they were genuine fish coming up with genuine water.

If a solution is not forthcoming soon: beware the little girl who threw the fish into the well as a prank. She may have been seen walking near the well...say ten, twelve miles away.

Geologists say the well was punched into a "--subterranean cavern in which the fish were imprisoned by an earthquake thousands of years ago."

There's plenty of latitude for the con side of the debate; the pros are wide open; but we'll be sporting and give them a chance to collect forces....

TELEPORTS AWOL...SAR...2/15/52 - (INS) - A 34-year-old Army sergeant with secret data "disappeared Feb. second from Sandia base near Albuquerque, New Mexico...appeared at Pontiac, Michigan (2/11/52) dazed and couldn't remember coming to Pontiac...Had disappeared on two other occasions.....

STILL AWOL...SAR...2/15/52...Pittsburgh - (AP) - "Tuesday, Lois (Weiland) disappeared while on a shopping trip...for a Valentines Day wedding."....When next we hear from her it will probably be a brief: "Found wandering in a dazed condition....what else did you expect? Case closed."...

But we are stubborn; so many 'closed cases' develope a remarkable propensity for staying unclosed.....

PINK ICE...lots of it...shall we risk that one? We've had red rain, and rivers of blood. It's been cold enough this winter for pink ice... who knows?

"Berwick, Pa. - (AP)---pink ice on the Susquehanna river. The technicolor ice formed along the east bank of the river and extended some distance out." SAR..

We don't want to made a joke book of this thing, so, we won't give you the solution the authorities offered...But even way back in '88, in "--Levant Herald May 29 and St. Louis Globe-Democrat May 30-an unknown substance fell from the sky for several hours - crystalline particles, some pink, some white"....C.F.....

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY...'Don't know exactly where this ties in but, does somewhere...(AP) dispatch...SAR...2/6/52...The incarcerates of a cell block in the Cali, Colombia jail were turning up well lubricated...and regular. The guards set a trap for a dope smuggler but didn't catch anything; the boys continued to mess-up their merit record.

Finally the cops caught them gathering spider-webs and rolling them into cigarettes or spiderettes...I never tried it, but it's an idea. If anybody can beat that one: I'll buy it.....

SEEMS like whenever we build up an airtight theory it develops a leak... Asi es la vida.....

THE PLATTER AND STATUE PHENOMENON

Columba Krebs

On the evening of September 20, 1951, I was a guest of Grace W. Browne, in South Kortright, New York. On top of her tall china cabinet stood a hollow glass statue, blown in the shape of an Indian woman, (an early American bottle. with a cork in its head) that she prized highly. Behind it stood a large square Staffordshire china platter which was held upright in a metal bracket fastened to the cabinet.

She went out to turn the porch-light off, and just as she was coming back through the door, we heard a noise on top of the cabinet. We were astounded to see the platter lift itself out of the bracket, (which didn't move) and sail over the head of the statue!

Ordinarily, if any vibration had tipped it over (but there was none in this quiet countryside) the platter would have struck the statue full in the back, causing the latter to be knocked over first. But as it was, the platter was lifted so high that only its bottom rim touched the back of the statue's head as it passed over.

The platter fell to the linoleum floor first and smashed into a thousand pieces-------although it was very thick and heavy! Whereas, the statue was made of thin glass-----yet it did not even have a crack when it landed on top of the shattered platter!

When I saw the statue tipping over, I projected my will-power to stop it (knowing how precious it was to my friend). If this had anything to do with its preservation I cannot say; but if so, my forces were not strong enough to prevent its fall, yet could have slowed it up so much that it finally struck the floor lightly enough to keep it from breaking! It was a weird sight to see that statue slow up in its descent!

When I told her about my quick projection of will-power, my friend thanked me for my effort to save the statue-----regardless of whether that had anything to do with it or not. We considered it to be a very strange phenomenon (to say the least) but cannot figure out what the meaning of it was, if any. Maybe, someday, we will.

THE "ETHER SHIPS" OF OAHSPE

(Book of ES,Ch.3 & 7 pas.)

And Litabakathrava ordered his fire-ship to be brought to Piatya, where it no sooner arrived than the hosts of the mission, the ten million, went aboard as guests and companions to Litabakathrava's fifty million travelling visitors to worlds, ten thousand times further on.

And now began the trumpeters and the es'enaurs in songs of praise, the two bands of musicians, a million performers.
Then upward, onward, rose the airavagna, the ship of fire, whose photosphere, as to size, was like a world; rose up higher and higher, heading for the far-off red star, that coursed in the serpent's coil, a million and a half miles a day.

Two thousand million miles off, lay the red star, the earth, seen by the magnifying instruments of the Gods, seen in its little orbit round the sun, of half a thousand million miles.

Four hundred million miles a day, sped the airavagna through the etherean worlds; like a flash of light shot forth the ship of Litabakathrava, Orian Chief of thousands of years, coursing the etherean heavens of Jehovih! A God that, but to look on a corporeal world, knew the grade of her mortals and angels, even as in his flight be passed on.

Five days and nights travelled the hosts of the emancipated heavens, to reach the earth; travelled through thousands and thousands of etherean worlds, of forests and swamps of ji'ay, and of nebula, and a'ji, and regions of light, and mountains and rivers and plains; countless places, inhabited and uninhabited in the great expanse of Jehovih's kingdoms.

Then they came to Chinvat, the bridge of the boundary of the earth's vortex, and there halted to survey the earth and her unruly heavens, where the four false Gods proclaimed themselves monarchs of the universe! A day they rested, in a day they measured the grade and standing of the earth's mortals and angels, and then they descended straight to Paradise, the place of God, Jehovih's Son.

After thousands of them had spoken, then spake Looeamong, saying:
Wise and Holy Lords and Gods of the all highest heavenly kingdom, great have been your wisdom and suggestions. Now, therefore, by the light of the Holy Ghost, hear ye my decrees:

I will send unto this stranger God, who hath come to Paradise, a fire-boat a million strong, and every one shall go crowned and arrayed with jewels and diadems, and weapons of warfare; and they shall have shields and figure-heads of tau (bull) and aries (lamb), as symbols of my attributes.

Behold, I send unto him as a lamb of peace, but I send also the spear and a sword.

In command of the fire-boat and the hosts thereof I appoint Ajudus, whom I will crown with the mitre and the triangle and the cut ring.....

Accordingly, a fire-boat of excellent workmanship was provided, and equipped in gorgeousness and splendour. And into it the million hosts, crowned as Lords, and commanded by Ajudus, embarked, and set sail for Paradise, the heavenly place of God, Jehovih's Son.

To work the fire-boat there were four hundred thousand slaves, composed of the spirits of such as had been on earth, popes, archbishops, bishops, cardinals, priests, and others who were serving their bondage of two hundred years (as they verily believed in purgatory), for the privilege of ultimately crawling on their bellies through the arena of the palace, and to approach near enough to look upon Dooeamong, their supposed all highest God and Saviour.

Such, then, was the magnificence and the object of the fire-boat sent to Paradise.

ATTENTION, PIEASE - OF EXPERIMENTERS WITH "PROJECT HERMES":

Memo. from Assoc. Rolf Telano (RMH) - through whom the Project was first communicated: to RR editor.

Feb. 24, 1952. "My experiments with Project Hermes have produced no results to date. I have learned from them, however, that the circuit cannot be connected up as shown. There is a heavy short circuit across the B battery, which causes the coil (2) and the crystal diode (6) to heat up badly if connected as shown. If Mr. John tried this circuit he must have made some variation at this point...

March 10,'52. "I am trying to work up a leaflet on the subject incorporating all changes and suggestions to date. Shall print and send you copies. Commentators said they intended the Diode sym bol as conventional symbol only, and assumed that any radio man would know 'which end was up' ". RMH

Associates working with this device should of course get the leaflet mentioned, immediately, to save time and unneceasary errors. File a request with RR. -- The file of correspondence (data) on this pro - ject has assumed considerable proportions; we shall have to do some more mimeographing on it - please send postage at least, up to 25¢ if you want it to come first-class, and including paper, envelopes and other small mailing costs. Worms have gone up lately and Robin is getting pretty weak!!

PUBLICATIONS - MISCELLANEOUS DATA OF INTEREST

THE SAUCER REVIEW: Elliott Rockmore, Box 148, Wall St. Sta. New York 5. Editor Rockmore sends us the following insert:

"The editor of Saucer Review expects a heavy increase of saucer sightings beginning in the middle of March and continuing for several months. Please check your newspapers for reports of saucers, aerial explosions, and falling objects during this period."

By agreement with the Saucer Review editor, clips can be sent direct to BSR Hdqrs, whence they will be sent on to the S.R. after being listed here. Your name and address, name of the paper, and date should accompany every clip. I regret that we cannot print, or even acknowledge separately more than a small number of such clips, but they are welcome and needed, and help to build up an important mass of data.

This Saucer Review (about 10 pp) can be had from BSR Hdqrs., at .20¢

REPRINT from RR. The Insurance Field magazine, weekly, St. Louis, does everyone a favor by reprinting, in the column contributed by Clarence T. Hubbard, nearly the whole of our BSR release entitled For Public Information. Issue of Jan. 25, '52. (credit Mrs. H.M.Graham).

DARE TO THINK is a digest of a lecture on parapsychology and ESP, delivered at the Bushnell Memorial, Hartford, Conn., by BR Assoc. Guy Hedlund. Pamphlet, 12 pp. Of considerable interest to investigators in parapsychology and allied subjects. For free copy write to Guy Hedlund, 4331 Campbell Drive, Culver City, Calif. Enclose postage.

HOW TIME BEGAN: This is an 11-page pamphlet by E.M. Tingley. Interesting, highly suggestive, somewhat technical and philosophical discussion of the major problem of modern philosophy. (The Yada di Shi'ite, by the way, says that Time and Consciousness are identifiable in last analysis). Useful bibliography on related subjects. Free copy, postpaid, Send printed names and addresses of those who may be interested. Author's address, 221 North Cuyler Ave.,Oak Park, Ill.

HALLUCINATIONS OF THE SANE: Psychiatric Significance of the Veridical or Truth-telling Variety. Pamphlet, 12 pg., 8 x 11". Of interest to psychic researchers, with very informative statistics. Address Russell G. MacRobert, M.D., 555 Park Ave. New York 21. No price stated; send postage.

CHIMES MAGAZINE for March '52 has an excellent article on Apports, by Stanley Breck. CHIMES is the "largest psychic monthly" and an excellent spiritualistic publication. Box 218, Brea, Calif. $1.50 for 12 issues, singles .15

QUICK AND FREE HEALING - (by means of the pendulum) is a 12-page pamphlet by "F.H.D.S.", issued by Markham House Press, Ltd., 31 Kings Road, London S.W. 3. Should interest students of radiesthesia. Price one shilling (20¢).

STFANEWS is a fanzine publication, about 8 pg., 5 x 7", litho; very useful as a review of numerous small publications (which often contain valuable material). STF does us the favor of printing a half-page review of Round Robin vii-3, and describes it as a must magazine for students of Borderland subjects. STFANEWS is conducted by David M. Ingraham and assistants. Saturn Publications. 1531 "O" St. N.W.,Wash. 5, D.C. Singles, 5¢; 26 issues for $1.00.

THE HOLLOWAY SCHOOL OF PHILOSOPHY continues to maintain itshigh level of thought and instruction. "Spiritual Echoes from India" (Advanced Studies Lesson #9) and "A Meditation on the Lord's Prayer" (Discourse 13) are their latest publications at hand. Conducted by Gilbert N. Holloway, Ph.D. As a rule Round Robin neither commends nor criticises Schools of occult instruction, but the RR editor is personally acquainted with Dr. Holloway and esteems him and his work very highly. Address the HOLLOWAY SCHOOL at P.O. box 5358, Metropol. Sta. Los Angeles 55, TELEPORTATION or apportation is a phenomenon of space, and is known and factually accepted by probably all occultists. The corresponding phenomenon in time is less often recognized. I am not referring to the projection of consciousness into the past or future (which can be accomplished under hypnosis and by various occult methods), but to the probable and frightening fact that a man can be 'picked up' from (say) a 17th century London street and 'set down' in Times Square 200 years later, in his 17th century clothing, sane and uninjured physically, but hopelessly bewildered and lost.

Some day I hope to take a few pages of RR for discussing the implications of this "impossible" phenomenon; meanwhile, if your nerves are calm and your mind half-way receptive, read I'M SCARED in Magazine Digest, January '52, by Jack Finney (p.79). And if you happen to have any factual data on such happenings as Finney describes, send it along to the RR office.

FLUORIDATION OF WATER: A nation-wide campaign well under way to introduce fluorine into community water supplies. There is no provable data of any benefit from this, and a number of serious objections stand against it. Either powerful commercial interests stand to profit by this scheme, or there is actually an attempt at enemy sabotage. The limitations of RR do not permit us to go into this matter - but we seriously advise our Associates and readers to write to W.D. Herrstrom, box 438, Faribault, Minn., for information - and then, if your own judgment approves, send him $1.00 for printed matter and distribute it where it may do some good - particularly to city officials and publicists. There is something very smelly at the back of this flimflam for fluorine business.

ALNICO MAGNETS: Associates who want these and can't get 'em, write to Herback & Rademan, Inc., 1204 Arch St. Phila. 7, Penna., and ask for catalogue or advertisement covering all forms of Alnicos. Rod magnets about 3 to 4" long x $\frac{1}{2}$" up to 1" dia. are handy for VITIC purposes. Specify this size as preferred, not essential.

"The Evil Ones" In France, and in some other countries also, the conservative and 'good' elements outnumber the communists and radicals, and yet are unable to cope with these latter. Is this failure due to the fact that they are trying to combat a spiritually evil force by material means. "It may be that the real struggle is far more in the realm of spiritual conflict - of parapsychology - than the politicians realize...". (Against what General Hilton describes as "the evil ones").

Considering that these remarks come from a publication of a highly responsible private information service, they are most extraordinary. Anyone who thinks that the role of black magic in world affairs is an old wives tale, needs "not an answer but an education."

Note from Assoc. Gustave Rasch, Bremen, Germany. "A local paper reported a few days ago that states of trance and hypnotic sleep are possible over television sets. The great danger of directing the public sentiments in this way was emphasized." -- "As a second item: in my opinion it would be interesting to measure the human aura, or that of animals, when placed between the capacitive plates, i.e., within the di-electric field of a capacitor."

THE KCl EXPERIMENT AGAIN: This is an addendum to a paragraph on another page, about the screen, the wire coil, and the KCl solution. BSR Assoc. Mrs Blanche Broberg set up this arrangement in the BSR office, divided a pack of radish seeds, put half on wet blotting paper under glass in front of the screen, the other half in similar way but in a far corner of the room (control box). Water and temperature the same for each. The seeds in the box before the screen sprouted 4 to 5 days before the others, and about 90%: the control box seeds sprouted about 20%, 4-5 days later.

This is only a single experiment crudely arranged, but it seems to be a "pointer" - suggests it might be worth while to follow up. If KCl solution wired to a screen actually stimulates seed germination to that extent - well, it's simple and inexpensive - and any number of other salts should be tested in the same way. Something for curious amateurs to work at for years, finding out new things. Recommended for housewives and everybody else. RR is interested. (Potassium chloride, c.p., costs $1.00 a pound; commercial kind will do; use about ½ teaspoonful to a quart of water).

HELP EDUCATE AGAINST CANCER: This is the title of a pamphlet issued by the "Ounce of Prevention" Committee, Box 179, Escondido, Calif., Paul De Souza, Director. If not enclosed with the RR, get one from the Committee or from BSRA Hdqrs. On the List of Institutions, cancel the first item, (American Cancer Society) as an AMA set-up. Check the following for inquiries and consultation, according to the particular case: C.M.R. LEAGUE (Koch) -- CALIF. ASS'N (Koch) -- LINCOLN FOUNDATION -- HOXSEY CLINIC -- NICHOLS SANITARIUM -- SPEARS SANITARIUM -- BEVERLY CLINIC -- DROSNES-LAZENBY CLINIC. We have no information on the remaining three.

THE LINCOLN CANCER TREATMENT --

Lincoln Foundation

On June 13, 1951, the Hon. Charles W. Tobey, Senator for New Hampshire, addressed the Senate on the subject of the Lincoln cancer treatment, referring to the extraordinary recovery of his son, whom the doctors had given up as a hopeless case, and also read into the record a detailed statement from his son, which in turn itemized several other case histories of equal gravity which had been treated with success. The Congressional Record Appendix for January 8 and 9, 1952,and for January 28, '52, also contain lengthy extensions of remarks by Senator Toby. The factual data contained in these are very impressive.

According to a statement prepared by Dr. Lincoln, in a medical paper read before the Medford, Mass., Medical Society (Dec.12, '51), the Lincoln Foundation is described as a non-profit charitable institution dedicated entirely to medical research, It announces the discovery of two "distinct antibiotic substances", tested over a period of five years, and continues with a technical description of their nature and effects. The 9-10 pages of the Records referred to, include these and much other very convincing data.

Round Robin and other BSR publications have for several years consistently supported the KOCH treatment for cancer. The continued success of this treatment and its fast increasing use have more than justified such support, and we expect to continue along the same line. There are, however, some six or seven other methods of cancer treatment now available, all of which are effecting a good percentage of cures. Of these, and at the moment, the Lincoln treatment is attracting most attention.

No one having this affliction should despair. No one who has been miss-treated, plundered, and given up to die by medical 'orthodoxy' and the greedy and ignorant devotees of the American Medical Association, should despair. The physician who denies any and all treatments except the X-ray, radium, and surgery, is condemned by his own words. Do not ask them whether the Koch or the Lincoln treatment is curing cancer or not - for you know their answer beforehand, and it will be false.

We have at BSR Hdqrs. a pamphlet entitled "Help Educate Against Cancer", which we shall enclose with this issue of RR if a supply arrives on time. If not, send for it. On it you will find the names and addresses of 8 institutions giving successful cancer treatment, of four others concerning which we have no information - as well as one we cross off as worthless and vicious (the American Cancer Society - or County Medical groups). Send these to suffering friends - send postage at least, or more if you feel disposed, since it costs time and money to mail them and we forward extra funds to the Committee publishing the pamphlet.

The Committee itself does not endorse or recommend any particular method or institution - but its folder sums up the sources of help and of cures, nearly all of them outside the fold of the AMA - which has nothing whatever to offer except its own itching palm.

"BRUSH WITH THE ETHERIANS"

Subsequent to our publication of the remarkable experiences of the occultist DR. KAPPA, we have had some 8 - 10 letters describing some - what similar experiences. Whether these are to be attributed to contact with the Ethereans and other unseen visitors to our planet (as I believe to have been the case with Dr. Kappa) it is of course impossible to make any definite assertion. Associate Delbert S. Peirce (Hollywood) permits us to quote excerpts from his own recent letter to RR.

Assoc. Delbert) S. Peirce.) "Re my brush with the Etherians (or whatever it was), I feel inwardly that it was they whom I contacted, but of course do not know certainly. My experiences were similar to those of R.E.B. They occurred only when I was at work and among people where ideas might be disseminated. The influence seemed to extend to those with whom I was conversing, as where normally they would have put up a stiff argument, they seemed (with one exception) to accept the ideas. I was not in trance or under control in any way, but had the feeling of having tuned in on something and that I wanted to go along with it, all the way.

I have a very friendly feeling toward these Etherians and no fear of them whatever. I do not believe they experience anything comparable to our physical pain, and so they are not understanding of it or sympathetic regarding it. All I know is the way I felt at these times. I felt a very great disgust for all humanity. I did not hate people or desire to harm them; but I wanted to be away from them completely and for all time. Even more than from the earth plane did I want to be away from those astral realms inhabited by disembodied humans. But I seemed to be tied to these realms by some very unpleasant duty.

I felt the greatest sympathy for animals, not because of their physical suffering, which I did not seem to take into account at all, but because their bodies were being destroyed needlessly. I felt a greatly increased appreciation of the beauties of landscape, and a sense of assurance, harmony, and power. I respected the great intelligence of animals and insects, and the comparison was not favorable to the humans. I seemed to see an ulterior motive back of practically everything that anybody did or said, and with those who were public figures the motives were particularly vicious. And though I have the deepest possible conviction that all was exactly as I sensed it to be, I find it very difficult to remember anything regarding any particular individual. . . I had some five or six of these experiences. There were no adverse after effects - and whoever I contacted I liked very much."

NOTE: The intense "disgust for humanity" seems a common element in experiences of this type. . . Re, Dr. Kappa: he was slowly recovering at last reports but the damage to his etheric body was very severe. He is resident in the Los Angeles area. Further news of him as his permission is received.

MY METHOD OF PREDICTINC EARTHQUAKES -
by - H. G. Seanor, BSRA:

For over a score of years I have noticed certain associated selestial and terrestial phenomena that have suggested a link between astronomy, seismology, and meteorology. Certain intense vectorial concentrations of force produce unusual air, water, and earth tides. Earthquakes follow in the wake of earth tides that have not receded,as do the air and water tides when the causative influence has passed on.

The cracked crust of the earth collapses when certain supporting key stones in anticlines (caused by earth tides) are removed. This is done by planetary or lunar attractions at right angles to the first causative attraction that produced the earth tide distortion of the crust. These natural bridges of faulted rock collapse, causing the quakes, tidal waves etc.

A recent example is the tidal pull of the recent total solar ecclipse in Africa. A week later the moon was in square to the ecclipse position and an earthquake of unusual severity occurred in the Japanese Islands.

On August 20, 1952 an annular ecclipse in Peru and Bolivia should be followed in the next week by earthquakes in this vicinity, also in the East Indies and Southern China. May 5-8, 1952, at 10 deg. No.Lat. & 30 deg. W. longitude, west coast of Africa. August 9, 1953, Pacific Coast North America.

(Note that these are closely dated predictions; it may interest some of our Associates to check on the outcome). (ML)

BSR ASSOCIATES, AREA OF MUNCIE, INDIANA, PLEASE CHECK: An AP dispatch of March 8 states that "State trooper Robert Mercer" brought in a woman driver, "booked as Velva D. Kiley, 49, Corona del Mar, Calif., charged with drunken driving, reckless driving and resisting arrest. Mercer said she was too drunk to answer. Why was she driving in this central state with Japanese license plates, a Japanese driver's license, and Japanese money in her billfold?"

We have the clipping but not the name of the paper that published this. Can someone find out about the Japanese angle on this, and also whether the woman was drunk, or merely dazed.

WANTED: Copy of "Edison, His Life and Inventions", by Dyer Martin Meadowcraft (date and publisher not known to us). And does anyone have a Tasimeter?

"This I'll Have) to See" file:) Associate RMH keeps a file under this heading; he's deeply suspicious by nature - a most recommendable trait in all BSR workers. RR has a similar file called Maybe-So. RMH puts into his file about half (I suspect) of things people on the 'other side' tell him about, then sprinkles salt on the remainder. But here are two of his waifs from the Inane that give one to think, anyhow:

(1) "It's quite possible to photographically record a mental image in three dimensions and color, tho' it's not likely that anyone on your (earth) plane could do it without the aid of some kind of mechanism, such as, possibly, the Project Hermes device. Method ... take a piece of plastic, wrap it in light proof paper, concentrate the mental image on it,then fix it with heat, without removing it from the wrapping until the process is completed. A plastic known as polystyrene appears to have about the correct qualities. No preparation of the plastic is necessary. The fixing temperature is about the boiling point, though it should be a dry heat, not a wet one."

(2) (Communicator claiming to be Charles P. Steinmetz): Yes, it is possible to construct a teleport device which would either send or pick up objects from a distant point. It would not be more complicated than a television set and could probably be built for about $200. I remember a circuit described in a book I had which could be used as the basis of the device. It was called Oscillating Circuits, by Deming and Frost. Get it and I will tell you how to modify it."

WILL BSR ASSOCIATES HELP US TO FIND A COPY OF THIS BOOK? Probably published between 1900 and 1920.

RE, PROJECT HERMES: Assoc. RMH is preparing a brief pamphlet or folder covering all important data on this, up to date. File your request for this with RR (BSRA Hdqrs). Don't forget postage - and it would be real nice if RMH could get his stamps out of it some way, too - not to mention hours of work and $$$ of expense. (That's our idea, not his).

That reminds us - we printed too many ROBINS last issue (VII-5) and have too many left on the shelves. Chance to send out 3 copies for $1. 7 for $2.00, 1 or 2 at .35 each - to friends, relatives, and/or unilluminated-others. "So shines a good deed in a naughty world... "

The booklet on the AURAMETER is ready to mimeograph; about 80 pages, fine mimeo job, not so hot as a literary production but with much suggestive data, "New Thought" in physics - or radiesthesia anyway - or New Ways to Get Confused. New printing of Hilliard's METATRON THEORY, of the KOCH TREATMENT FOR CANCER, of MEDIUMS & MEDIUMSHIP (almost ready) and of VITIC - and of Schultz's PREVISIONAL ATOMIC RESEARCH which is beginning to "click" like a Geiger counter. WANTED, an Assistant Editor and a vacation for the present one. Addendum, we have at long last the materials for the CHIGA, first non-stop for Mars (NO, VENUS!) announced later.
